

The Titanic

The Titanic was built in Belfast in 1911. It was the biggest ship in the world at the time. It was as long as three football pitches and as tall as a 17-storey building. On the 10th of April the Titanic set sail from Southampton and stopped in France and Queenstown (Cobh), Co. Cork, before setting off on its maiden voyage to New York, USA. There were about 2,200 people on board. However, on the 14th of April the Titanic hit an iceberg and sank early the next morning. There were not enough lifeboats on board to carry all the people on board. Only 705 people survived.
