

Sam and the Monkeys

Sam lived near the jungle. He was selling hats. He had lots of hats in his bag. One day he was going home. Sam was tired. He sat down under a tree. He put a hat on his head and fell asleep.

The monkeys were playing in the jungle. They saw the hat on Sam. They saw the hats in the bag.

Monkeys are copycats. They like to do what people do. The naughty monkeys took the hats and put them on their heads. They had good fun.

They were swinging in the trees.

Sam woke up. He saw the monkeys. He saw all his hats. He had a plan. "Monkeys are copycats," said Sam to himself. "I will trick them."

Sam took off his hat. He threw it on the grass. The monkeys took off their hats too. They threw them on the grass. Sam quickly picked up the hats. He put them back in his bag. The monkeys were angry but Sam was happy.
